Each Party shall ensure that its processes are consistent with the procurement procedures in Article V (Procurement Procedures) of this Agreement.

2. Each Party undertakes the obligations in this Agreement with the understanding that it shall obtain reciprocal treatment from the other Party.

3. Each Party shall, consistent with its national laws, regulations, policies, and international obligations, give favorable consideration to all requests from the other Party for cooperation in defense capability research and development, production, procurement, and logistics support.

4. Consistent with its national laws, regulations, policies, and international obligations, and for so long as the other Party provides non-discriminatory treatment to the products of the Party in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement, each Party shall:

- 4.2. Remove barriers both to procurement and to co-production of supplies produced in the other country or services performed by sources (hereinafter referred to as “industrial enterprises”) established in the other country. This includes providing to industrial enterprises of the other country treatment no less favorable than that accorded to domestic industrial enterprises. Such technical data and defense items made available by the contracting Party shall not be used for any purpose other than for bidding on, or performing, defense contracts covered by this Agreement, except as authorized, in writing, by those owning or controlling proprietary rights, or furnishing the technical data or defense items.
- 4.7. Give full protection to proprietary rights and to any privileged, protected, export-controlled, or classified data and information; and shall take all lawful steps available to prevent the transfer of such data and information, supplies, or services to a third country or any other transferee without the prior written consent of the originating Party.

Further, any export subject to the national export control laws and regulations of one of the Parties, must be compliant with such laws and regulations.
